

DWHS Sociology Curriculum overview

Curriculum rationale: In the psychology department we seek to develop within our students an understanding of the way people think and why people behave in certain ways. Students learn a variety of skills including analytical thinking, improved communication, problem solving and many more that will prepare them for an exciting future with the possibility of a range of fantastic careers. The ultimate aim is to empower students with confidence and knowledge that will enable them to make positive contributions to wider society throughout their lives.
